

Let's Talk Understanding Our World in the Early Years

Suitable for Geography, History and Science
Subject Leaders

This webinar will explore the statutory requirements within the early years educational programme for 'Understanding Our World'.

As geography, history or science subject leaders it is crucial that you have an awareness and understanding of the foundational experiences and language that children learn and develop in the early years.

This webinar will explore key principles of early years practice and provision and what these subjects may look like in an early years setting or classroom.
